Inhalt des Workshops/ Contents of the workshop

Leadership is a concept with a wide range of attributions. Leadership means responsibility and dealing with the different faces of power. In addition, your own idea of leadership plays an enormous role. You have to address different people with different mindsets, status and ideas. Building relationships and create a culture of identification with projects or organisational targets is a lifelong learning. Your knowledge about yourself, own skills and capabilities and ideas of improvement can help you to be a good leader. This includes knowledge about communicative „power“ or „status games“ combined with gendered norms and a way to address this in your own way, respectively changing these patterns of perception.

This training will address the variety of leadership, leadership skills combined with personal views of leadership and power. Besides a broad range of leadership toolsets, your concept of power, yourself and sovereignty matter.

How would you handle different situations?

How could you be heard and a good listener in order to guide a conversation in an appropriate way? All these questions will be addressed in the two day online training „follow me!“.

Methods: In interactive, self reflective and group exercises you will get the possibility to define, discuss and design your idea of leadership. You will learn and use different leadership instruments, design your self concept as a leader in two days.
